ANNEXURE A.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ENUMERATORS.

1.—Rules for filling up the Schedule. You must use black ink only, write very clearly and use English figures.

Column 1 (House number).—Enter the number of the house. If it is empty, write "empty" after the number and leave one line blank. If you find a house without a number, you will report to the Supervisor for orders.

Column 2 (serial number).—This column is not to be filled up until after the final enumeration. You will then enter a serial number for all persons enumerated.

Column 3 (Name).—Enter first the chief resident member of the family, whether male or female, then the other members of the family and their resident servants, if any. If there be any objection made to giving the name of a female write the word "female" (adding her relationship to some member of the family) and fill up the rest of the columns for her as unusual. If an infant has not yet been named, enter the word "infant". If any female is unwilling to give her husband's name, you must ask some one else for the information. When you have entered all the persons in a house, you will leave one space blank before making the entries for the next house.

Column 4 (a) (Religion).—Enter here the religion which each person returns, as Hindu, Musalman, Sikh, Christian, Parsi.

Column 4 (b) (Sect of religion).—Enter the sect of each person, thus for Hindus, Sanatan Dharam, Arya, Brahmo, etc; for Sikhs Kesdhari or Sahjdhari; for Musalmans, Sunni, Shia, Wahabi, Ahmadi, Zikri, etc. Great care should be taken in ascertaining and recording the various Christian denominations such as Church of England, Roman Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian, vague terms such as Protestants should not be used.

Column 5 (Male or female).—Enter whether male or female, even though you have already written "female" in column 3.

Column 6 (Married, etc).—Enter each person, whether infant, child or grown up, as either married, unmarried or widowed. Divorced persons should be entered as widowed.

Column 7 (Age).—Enter the number of years each person has completed. For infants less than one year old, enter the word 'infant': do not enter the months of the infant's age.

Column 8 (Caste).—In the case of Hindus and Sikhs enter the caste and sub-caste thus:—Brahman, Mahyal, Khatri, Bahri; Arora, Sachdev.—In the case of Fakirs and Sadhus who have abandoned their caste enter the order to which they belong. In the case of Christians enter race, e.g., English, Scotch, Goanese, Bengali, Punjabi, etc. In the case of indigenous inhabitants, i.e., Pathans, Baloch, Brahui, Sayyad and Jat, enter race and tribe e.g., Pathan, Kakar, Baloch Mari, etc., and fill in clan, section, sub-section on the supplementary statement provided.

Column 9 (Principal occupation of actual workers).—Enter the principal means of livelihood of all persons who actually do work or carry on business whether personally or by means of servants, or who live on house-rent, pension, etc. Enter the exact occupation and avoid vague terms such as 'service' or 'writing' or 'labour'. For example in the case of labour, say whether in the fields, or in coal mines, ice factory, flour mill, earth work, or portage, etc. In the case of agriculture, write whether a man is a non-cultivating andlord (Malik-i-arazi), cultivating proprietor (Malik-i-khud khast), or tenant (Bazgar). In the case of Government pensioners state whether the pension is Civil, Military or Political. If a person makes the articles he sells he should be entered as 'maker and seller' of them. Women and children who work at any occupation which helps to augment the family income must be entered in column 9 under that occupation and not in column II. Column 9 will be blank for dependants.

Column 10 (Subsidiary occupation of actual workers).—Enter here any occupation which actual workers pursue at any time of the year in addition to their principal occupation. Thus if a person is a shopkeeper and also possesses some agricultural land the word 'shopkeeper' will be entered in column 9 and the word 'Malik-i-arazi' in column No. 10. If an actual worker has no additional occupation, enter in column 10 the word 'none'. This column will be blank for dependants.

Column 11 (Means of subsistence of dependants).—For children and women and old or infirm persons who do not work, either personally or by means of servants, enter the principal occupation of the person who supports them. This column will be blank for actual workers.

Column 12 (Birth-district).—Enter the district or State (but not the village or tahsil) in which each person was born. If the person was not born in Baluchistan, add the name of the Province to the district of birth. In the case of persons born in Rajputana enter the name of district and State. If the person was born out of India, enter the country as Nepal, Afghanistan, Independent Territory.

Column 13 (Language).—Enter the language which each person ordinarily uses in his own home. In the case of infants and deaf-mutes the language of the mother should be entered.

Column 14 (Literate or illiterate).—Enter against each person who can both read and write the language or languages he can read and write. In the case of a person who cannot read and write, this column must be left blank.

Column 15 (English).—Enter the word 'English' against each person who can both read and write English. The column will be blank for those who cannot.

Column 16 (Infirmities).—If any person be blind of both eyes, or insane, or suffering from corrosive leprosy, or deaf and dumb from birth, enter the name of the infirmity in this column. Other diseases are not to be entered.

Do not enter those who are blind of one eye only, or who are suffering from white leprosy only, or who have become deaf and dumb after birth.

II.—PROCEDURE.

A.—The first round—(Preliminary Enumeration).

1. Beginning from the 1st or February 1911 you will visit every house in your block to which a separate number has been affixed, in the order in which the houses are entered in your block list, and fill up the columns in the schedule for all persons who ordinarily live or take their meals from the house. Even if they are temporarily absent such persons should be entered, if they will be back by the 10th March. Visitors should not be entered if they will have left before that date.

2. You must carefully study the instructions given above for filling in the columns of the schedule and also the specimen schedule on the cover of your enumeration book which contains a number of entries illustrating the rules. You should consult your Supervisor whenever you are in doubt as to the proper entry.

3. You should prepare a rough draft on plain paper of at least five families in your block. Show this to the Supervisor and when approved, transfer these entries on to the schedule, which should then be filled in.

4. If the entry for any person in any of the columns of the schedule be the same as that for the person entered on the line above, you must repeat the entry. You must not write the word 'ditto' or make dots.

5. You must have completed all the entries in your book by the 20th February 1911.

NOTE.—In Sibi and Quetta towns the preliminary enumeration should be finished by the 25th and 28th February respectively.

B.—The second round (Final Enumeration).

6. On the evening of the 10th March at the time of lighting lamps you will take your book as already filled in and again visit every house in your block in order. Before you start on your round you must see that you are yourself enumerated in the house where you are stopping.

7. You must summon the chief member of each family and read over to him one by one the names of the members of his household entered in the schedule, asking him, as you read each name, whether the person is present in the house or not. You must also ask him particularly whether any fresh persons have come or any child has been born. You must strike out the entries for persons who are not present, and fill up the form for any person now in the house who was not there when the first visit was made, such as guests, infants newly born, and others. You are to consider as present all persons living in or taking their meals from the house, even though any of them may be pursuing game or watching in the fields or the like.

8. The fresh entries mentioned in the last rule must be made on the blank pages at the end of your book. In each case you will enter the number of the house to which the fresh entries relate, writing under it the word 'continued'.

9. You must make no alteration whatever in any entry against the name of any person unless you have to strike out the entries altogether, because he or she is no longer present. When you strike out a person, you must draw a line completely through all the entries following that person's name, and not merely through column 3.

10. Whilst going on the second round, you must visit every house marked 'empty' in your book to see whether any person is then living there.

11. You must also go to the dharmshalas, mosques, ziarats, serais, encampments, and all other places where travellers rest for the night, and enter all particulars in the schedules for the way-farers, keepers of the shrines, etc., and others you may find there, and strike out the entries already made against persons who are not then present. You should ascertain from the malik or village watchman whether any members of a wandering tribe have come to your block. If so, you must go and enumerate them in the manner prescribed above.

12. If any house-holder in your block has been given a separate schedule, you must collect it on the morning of the 11th March and, after seeing that columns have been duly filled in according to the rules, you must stitch it into your book, next to the last schedule filled up by you. Column 2 should then be filled in, a serial number being given to each person in your block.

13. You will then (on the morning of the 11th March) go without any delay to the place appointed by your Supervisor, and after your book has been inspected by him, you will enter in the abstract printed on the inside of the cover, the number of houses and persons, male and female, in your block.

14. According to the Census Act, every person is legally bound to furnish you with such information as is necessary for filling up the schedule, but you are forbidden to ask for any information not required for the purposes of the Census, as, for instance, the amount of any person's income. Any Enumerator extorting money on any pretext connected with the Census renders himself liable to punishment under the Census Act or the Penal Code.

No. 4463 R.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 9 of the Indian Census Act, 1910 (Act XVI of 1910), the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner and Agent to the Governor General in Baluchistan is pleased to direct hereby that the schedule to be filled by occupiers of houses shall be in the form of the household schedule as annexed hereto:—

No. 1904-F.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 10 of Act XIX of 1883 the Chief Commissioner, North-West Frontier Province, is pleased to make the following rules in supersession of the rules notified by the Government of the Punjab in notification No. 79, dated 11th July 1901 :—

RULES.

1. Applications for loans may be presented to any Revenue Officer of or above the rank of Naib Tahsildar for the Collector's orders and should be made in the prescribed printed Form A. In the case of applications for loans up to Rs500 they may be presented to Field Kanungos. Applications may also be made orally or by post, in which cases the Revenue Officer receiving an application will himself fill up the prescribed form. Forms will be supplied free of cost.

2. Deputy Commissioners and Political Agents, Tochi and Kurram, may grant loans not exceeding Rs2,500 and Revenue Assistants may grant loans up to Rs500 for any one improvement as defined in section 4 of the Act. Revenue Assistants will report each grant to the Deputy Commissioner. Loans exceeding Rs2,500 for any one work require the sanction of the Revenue Commissioner up to the limit of Rs10,000. Loans exceeding Rs10,000 require the Chief Commissioner's sanction. Detailed plans and estimates or professional opinion may be called for in his discretion by the officer by whom the loan is granted.

3. Applications will be enquired into locally by Revenue Officers of rank not lower than that of Naib Tahsildar within one month from the date of receipt of the application for the purpose of ascertaining the particulars mentioned on the reverse of Form A. But in the case of small loans of the amount of Rs500 or less the enquiry may be entrusted to a Field Kanungo. All applications should be disposed of promptly.

4. In the case of loans exceeding Rs1,000 the sanctioning officer may direct the payment of the money in instalments, the second instalment not being given until it has been ascertained by inspection on the spot that work to the value of the first instalment has been actually done.

5. Sanctioning officers will bear in mind that the loans which they grant should be sufficient to cover such outlay on the work as the borrower cannot meet from his own resources.

6. The ordinary term of repayment of loans shall not exceed twenty years, but the term may be extended with the Chief Commissioner's sanction in special cases.

7. The first instalment of the repayment of the loan, either of principal or of interest, will be fixed by the sanctioning officer at a date when the profits of the improvement may be expected to cover the repayment. But the period of grace should not exceed 2½ years in any case and interest should be charged during its currency.

Rules and Tables regarding the repayment of loans and showing the distribution of principal and interest are appended for guidance, as are also the Forms B. C. D. in which orders granting loans are to be made and security bonds taken. These forms will be supplied in print.

8. The rate of interest shall be one anna in the rupee or six and a quarter per cent. per annum. The Revenue Commissioner may, for special reasons, sanction a loan at a lower rate of interest or without interest.

9. If any instalment of principal, or of interest, or of consolidated principal and interest, is not paid when it falls due, the Collector shall, unless there is any special reason to the contrary, charge a penal compound interest on it at a rate of six and a quarter per cent. per annum from the date of its falling due to the date of payment.

The Revenue Commissioner may remit or reduce compound penal interest in cases in which he is satisfied that the failure is due to inability to pay and that the levy of such interest would be a hardship.

10. The dates for the payment of instalments shall usually be the dates fixed for payment of the land revenue.

11. The officer who sanctions the loan may suspend the collection of instalments for repayments. He shall immediately report such suspensions to the Revenue Commissioner. The suspension of an instalment will postpone for one instalment period the payment of all the remaining instalments and interest will cease to accrue during this period. When general suspensions of land revenue are granted over an area the instalments due on improvements under the Act in that area will also be suspended.

12. Remissions of outstanding instalments, or of a part of them, when a work has failed from causes beyond the borrower's control and when the recovery of the loan in full would occasion serious hardship, may be granted with the Revenue Commissioner's sanction.

13. Ordinarily the land on which the improvement is to be carried out will be held to be sufficient security for a loan of a sum equal to 25 times the land revenue assessed on it.

14. When the borrower's interest in the land to be improved is sufficient security of itself to cover the loan, no further security should be demanded.

15. Where the amount of loan does not exceed three-fourths of the value of the land after the improvement has been carried out, no collateral security need be required.

16. Where the interest of the borrowers in the land to be improved is not sufficient of itself to ensure the repayment of the loan, further security must be required. This may consist of other land or immoveable property belonging either to the applicant or to other persons who are willing to be his sureties or of personal security. The joint personal security of several persons may be accepted if sufficient to ensure the repayment of a loan.

17. When the borrower is the person who is responsible for the payment of the land revenue assessed on the land to be improved, it will not be necessary for the sanctioning officer to publish a notice calling for objections under section 5 of the Act. Persons holding pre-existing encumbrances on the land are bound under the Land Revenue Act to have such encumbrances entered in the record-of-rights, an extract from which should be attached to every application for a loan. Encumbrances not entered in the record-of-rights may ordinarily be disregarded.

18. In estimating the value of the land under these rules when the borrower is a proprietor or quasi proprietor the value of the rights of the occupancy tenants of the land and of lessees under section 76 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act should be deducted.

19. The only class of tenants whose holding can be accepted as a security for a loan are occupancy tenants. Such tenants cannot hypothecate their holdings to Government as security for a loan without giving notice to and obtaining the consent in writing of the landlord. In the absence of the landlord's consent the tenant's interest cannot be accepted as sufficient security. When the consent of the landlord has been obtained applications for loans from occupancy tenants will be dealt with under the foregoing rules.

1.—Transactions with the borrower.

1. Table A appended to these rules shows the equated annual instalments in which a loan of Rs100 would be repayable in different periods. The calculations in the table are made on the following basis:—

- (1) the rate of interest is taken at 6½ per cent. per annum;

- (2) the figures in columns 2 to 5 of the table are based on the assumption that the Collector allows the borrower a period of 1, 1½, 2, or 2½ years from the date of the advance before the latter begins to repay it. In the meantime no charge at all (e.g., for interest) would be realised, the interest for the period having been allowed for in the calculation of equated payments;
- (3) the figures are given to the nearest anna, pies being neglected. The amount of the last instalment would in most cases, strictly speaking, differ somewhat from that of the other instalments, but the difference being very small has been disregarded.
2. Should the loan be greater or less than ₹100, the amount of each equated payment should be calculated to the nearest anna by simple proportion. The periods of repayment taken in the tables, viz., 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 15, 20 and 25 years will probably be found sufficient to cover the cases of small and short-term loans for the purchase of seed, fodder and cattle, as well as larger loans for land improvement.
3. It will be seen that Table A provides only for cases in which a loan is advanced in a single instalment. Where a loan is advanced in more than one instalment, the interest due on the previous instalments should be deducted from the amount of the last instalment at the time when this is paid to the borrower. For the purpose of the table the whole loan will then be considered to have been made on the date on which the last instalment was advanced to the borrower.
4. In considering applications for loans the Collector will first decide whether the need for the loan is established and the security sufficient, the amount to be advanced, the instalments (if there is to be more than one instalment) in which it is to be advanced and the period to be allowed before repayment commences (subject to a maximum of 2½ years from the date of the last instalment of the advance). In deciding these points he should have regard only to the circumstances of the borrower, the character of the improvement, and the date on which it is likely to begin to pay.
5. When the Collector has announced to the borrower his decision as regards the above points, he should explain the tables to him, and (unless he sees fit to limit his discretion in the matter) leave it to him to choose the term for the repayment of the loan. The table assumes that the equated instalments are to be paid annually, but if the borrower desires to make half-yearly payments he may be allowed to do so, half the annual instalment being taken every six months. It should, however, in any case be arranged, if possible, that, whatever be the date of the loan, the date fixed for the repayment of the instalment should coincide with a date for repayment of a land revenue instalment so that the borrower or his headman may be saved a journey to the Tahsil. The resulting small loss or gain of interest may be disregarded.
6. The borrower should then be required to sign an agreement to pay so many instalments of so many rupees and annas every year and given a copy of this agreement. This would not show the distribution of each payment between principal and interest, but would merely give the total sum to be repaid.
7. If an order is passed by competent authority postponing payment of an instalment, all subsequent instalments must be held to have been postponed for a similar period, and no more than one instalment will be recovered in any one year (or half-year, as the case may be). No interest will be charged for the postponement. The total amount to be repaid will remain the same as before, the only difference being that the debt is not cleared off so soon as was originally intended.
8. In charging penal interest on overdue instalments not duly suspended the same period of grace should be allowed as in the case of payments of land revenue, and thereafter interest should be charged on the total of the overdue instalment at the same rate as the interest on the loan. It is for the Local Government to decide whether simple or compound interest should be charged in such cases, and it may remit or reduce penal interest when it is satisfied that the failure is due to inability to pay, and that the levy of such interest would be productive of hardship.

II.—Accounts.

9. The Tahsil officials will not maintain an account showing how much of each instalment is to be credited to principal and how much to interest. All that is necessary is to show in the daily list of receipts the total amount of the instalment paid and the loan on account of which it is paid. Should penal interest be realised, it should be shown, with the necessary explanation, as a credit to "Interest on Takavi."

10. It is essential that each instalment of repayment should be distributed properly between principal and interest in the District Treasury accounts, and Tables B and C show how the distribution should be made in the case of a loan of ₹100 repayable in 5 and 10 instalments, when the first instalment is payable after 2 years. Interest during the moratorium period should be regarded as a first charge on the instalment and its payment has accordingly been included in the column headed "interest." It will be necessary for a similar table to be drawn up for each loan; this table will be kept at the headquarters treasury, and when the Tahsil account shows that an instalment has been paid, the treasury clerk responsible should look up the particular account of the loan concerned, and distribute the payment between principal and interest according to that account. Penal interest will be credited to "Interest on Takavi."

11. In cases in which a loan is advanced in more than one instalment and the interest due on previous Instalments is deducted from the last instalment in the manner stated in rule 3, the Collector will make an adjustment in the treasury accounts by debiting the head "Advances to cultivators" and crediting "XII.—Interest" with the amount of the interest on the earlier instalments.

12. Postponement of an instalment will not affect the immediate distribution in the takavi accounts between Principal and Interest, which will be made as shown in the original account, whenever the instalment is realised. The Treasury Officer will, however, in the case of such a postponement, at once make a payment by transfer, debiting 32.—Miscellaneous by credit to XI.—Interest, with an amount equal to the amount of interest payable for that year (as shown in column 2 of illustrative Tables B and C) and will support the payment by the Collector's order of postponement.

13. Owing to the fact that the calculations are made to the nearest anna only, as explained in rule 1 (3), the amount of the last instalment will usually not exactly correspond to the amount of principal and interest due. Any excess or short recoveries will be credited or debited as the case may be to "Interest on Takavi."
